

Ed King

by David Guterson

About the Book

A sweeping, propulsive, darkly humorous new novel by the best-selling author of Snow Falling on Cedars: a story of destiny, desire, and destruction that reimagines Sophocles's Oedipus Rex for our own era.

In Seattle in 1962, Walter Cousins, a mild-mannered actuary --- ?a guy who weighs risk for a living? --- takes a risk of his own, and makes the biggest error of his life. He sleeps with Diane Burroughs, the sexy, not-quite-legal British au pair who's taking care of his children for the summer. Diane gets pregnant and leaves their baby on a doorstep, but not before turning the tables on Walter and setting in motion a tragedy of epic proportions. Their orphaned child, adopted by an adoring family and named Edward Aaron King, grows up to become a billionaire Internet tycoon and an international celebrity --- the ?King of Search? --- who unknowingly, but inexorably, hurtles through life toward a fate he may have no power to shape.

An instant classic --- David Guterson's most daring and dazzling novel yet --- that brings a contemporary urgency to one of the greatest stories of all time.

Discussion Guide

1. In Sophocles's play Oedipus Rex, a prophecy is made that a newborn prince will kill his father and marry his mother. How did this expectation affect your interpretation of Ed King?
2. The novel diverges from the classic tale in several ways, notably in the fates of Ed and Diane. How did David Guterson make this story his own --- and a story for our own time? And why did he change the ending?
3. What purpose is served by the message-board conversations that begin and end the novel?

4. Discuss the role of fate in the novel. Was it possible for things to play out differently or were the major events predestined?

5. The idea of being a visionary, or of being able to predict the future, begins with Walter's job as an actuary and continues throughout the novel. What point is Guterson making?

6. Alice pricks her finger on a rose thorn while taking Ed home from the adoption agency, staining his blanket with her blood. (page 60) She sees this as an unhappy omen. In what ways was she right, and how was she wrong?

7. What role does Judaism play in the novel? How does being raised a Jew shape Ed's personality?

8. How does Ed get over Walter's death? Why does he stalk Tina, and why does he give up?

9. What makes Diane so obsessed with her looks? Is she a narcissist? Is Ed?

10. At the party thrown by Prophecy, a Tarot card reader tells Ed, "You're dangerous to the world and to yourself." He responds, "Don't make me laugh." (page 166) Did Ed turn out to be a danger to the world or only to himself?

11. Both Ed and Simon are math whizzes. How do their destinies differ and why?

12. Discuss Club's betrayal of Diane. Were you surprised by this turn of events? Were his actions --- or her revenge --- justified?

13. In the novel, there are several types of sibling relationships: adopted brothers, half siblings, and siblings who share both parents. How does a shared bloodline influence their interactions? How is it different in the case of Ed and Simon, who are unaware they're not blood relatives?

14. When Ed and Diane meet, the narrator pauses to address the reader directly: "Now we approach the part of the story a reader can't be blamed for having skipped forward to . . ." (page 236) What was your reaction to Guterson's narrative choice here? Why do you think he made it?

15. What is the significance of Guido, the pilot, and his anagrams? Is there a secret he unlocks about identity or authorship?

16. Ed becomes known as the King of Search, and he's seeking to create the "perfect search." How does Guterson use the idea of search as a metaphor?

17. Discuss the metaphor of Cybil and artificial intelligence. Is Ed playing God?

18. Ed's last words are, "The entire universe will know my name! The world will remember my name!" How did Edward Aaron King's hubris contribute to his (literal) downfall?
