Stronger Than Sin

by Caridad Piñeiro

About the Book

Dr. Liliana Carrera nearly lost her life to Wardwell scientists. She won't let them harm other innocent victims, like her new patient, Jesse Bradford. The former pro athlete had the best hands in the NFL?until an injury forced him to undergo Wardwell's experimental gene therapy. Now Jesse's gorgeous body is superhuman-but his strength comes at a price.

With Wardwell threatening his family, Jesse can't tell Liliana all he knows. Yet he can't resist her compassion?or her healing, erotic touch. As their passion flares, Jesse's body becomes dangerous and volatile. For evil men are plotting to change the face of humanity-and will destroy whoever stands in their way.

Discussion Guide

1. Do you think that our society places too much emphasis on celebrities and in particular, sports heroes?

2. Do you believe it possible that a good man can redeem himself when he has taken the wrong path and abused alcohol, disrespected women and lost sight of his family values?

3. Has our society turned a blind eye to violence against women?

4. Science has provided many wonderful advances in our lives, but do you believe there is a limit to what science should do? Take for example the hero in Stronger Than Sin, Jesse Bradford, who is developing inhuman strength thanks to genetic engineering. Do you think we should allow such engineering?

5. If you or a loved one was beyond normal medical help, would you undertake radical gene therapies?

6. On a lighter note, if there was no risk involved, what kind of special power would you like to have?

7. In the story, and despite their wishes, Liliana and Jesse are immediately drawn to one another, almost like love at first sight. Do you believe in love at first sight?

8. Finally, and just for fun, if you had to cast the movie for Stronger Than Sin, who would you choose to play Jesse Bradford and Liliana Carrera?
