

Saving Grace

by Jane Green

About the Book

Grace and Ted Chapman are widely regarded as the perfect literary power couple. Ted is a successful novelist and Grace, his wife of 20 years, is beautiful, stylish, carefree and a wonderful homemaker. But what no one sees, what is churning under the surface, is Ted's rages. His mood swings. And the precarious house of cards that their lifestyle is built upon. When Ted's longtime assistant and mainstay leaves, the house of cards begins to crumble and Grace, with dark secrets in her past, is most vulnerable. She finds herself in need of help but with no one to turn to...until the perfect new assistant shows up out of the blue. To the rescue comes Beth, a competent young woman who can handle Ted and has the calm efficiency to weather the storms that threaten to engulf the Chapman household. Soon, though, it's clear to Grace that Beth might be too good to be true. This new interloper might be the biggest threat of all, one that could cost Grace her marriage, her reputation and even her sanity. With everything at stake and no one to confide in, Grace must find a way to save herself before it is too late.

Powerful and riveting, SAVING GRACE will have you on the edge of your seat as you follow Grace on her harrowing journey to rock bottom and back.

Jane Green is available for Skype chats with book groups. Contact her here.

Discussion Guide

1. Grace's complex relationship with her mother has a profound influence on the relationships she goes on to cultivate throughout her life. How is Grace's relationship with and reaction to Ted influenced by that which she had with her mother? In what ways are her relationships with Ted and her mother similar? In addition, how has Grace's guilt over the circumstances of her mother's death influenced her relationships, including those she has with Beth as well as the women at Harmont House?

2. Did you find anything about Beth to be suspicious at first? If you were Grace, at what point would you begin to suspect that something was not quite right about Beth and/or her motives?
3. Grace has lived her life propelled by the belief that, “If she just keeps running and running, keeps being the perfect wife, mother, cook, the past will surely disappear.” Why does this ultimately not work? What does Grace come to realize about her goal of perfecting the illusion so that “her secrets will recede?”
4. Where in the story do we see examples of how cooking has served as a sort of sanctuary for Grace throughout her life? Do you have something in your own life that plays a similar role?
5. What manipulative tactics does Beth use to reel in Ted and Grace? How does she take advantage of their weaknesses?
6. Women are known for our intuition, that little voice that tells you when something is wrong, and we like to think that as we grow older, we learn to listen to it. Do you think intuition increases or decreases as we get older? Do you find that you are relying on your intuition more or less? In what circumstances have you let your head overrule those feelings, and then been proven right?
7. Grace repeatedly has a feeling or an instinct that things are off --- for example with Beth and later with Dr. Ellery’s diagnosis. Where do we see examples of this? What factors in both Grace’s present and past have caused her to mistrust, question or ignore her instincts?
8. As it relates to health, should you trust your intuition or the facts as presented by doctors? Should you research your own health issues and inform yourself as much as possible or is too much information a dangerous thing?
9. Grace notes the differences in the treatment and view of medicine by society in the United States versus in England. How does the position of power and authority associated with a medical degree affect Grace’s experience with Dr. Frank Ellery?
10. When Lydia asks Grace what it is that she wants, Grace tells her that she wants her life back the way it was before, including Ted. What was your reaction to this? If you were in Grace’s shoes would you have said the same thing? If not, how would you have responded?
11. How did you react to the scene at Ted’s reading when Grace first encounters Beth after returning from England? What would you have said to Beth?
12. How did you react to the ending of the novel? What do you imagine the future holds for Beth? What about for Grace and also for Ted?

Jane Green is available for Skype chats with book groups. Contact her here.

Author Bio

A former journalist in the UK and a graduate of the International Culinary Center in New York, Jane Green has written many novels (including JEMIMA J, THE BEACH HOUSE, FALLING and THE SUNSHINE SISTERS), most of which have been New York Times bestsellers, and one cookbook, GOOD TASTE. Her novels are published in more than 25 languages, and she has over 10 million books in print worldwide. She lives in Westport, Connecticut, with her husband and a small army of children and animals.

Critical Praise

“Green tackles serious issues such as emotional abuse and overprescribing of drugs while still managing to keep the pages turning at a rapid rate.”

Saving Grace

by Jane Green

Publication Date: June 9, 2015

Genres: Fiction, Women's Fiction

Paperback: 384 pages

Publisher: St. Martin's Griffin

ISBN-10: 1250047390

ISBN-13: 9781250047397