A lyrical, haunting debut that explores the power of parenthood, identity, lust, and the legacy of trauma.

Jocelyn and Simon are unlikely neighbors in a luxury condo building. Simon is a Rwandan refugee living the American Dream and Jocelyn is living a life of privilege with her charming husband and beautiful young daughter. But each has scars—both figurative and literal—from their pasts. As Jocelyn and Simon begin a friendship, they forge a bond out of their dark histories—a bond that may be their only hope of being pulled back from the abyss.

A captivating work of historical fiction—based on true events—set in Seoul, a year after the Korean War armistice, about two women who seem the most unlikely to ever meet.

February 1954. Alice J. Kim, a Korean translator and typist working for the US forces still sanctioned in Korea, is haunted by memories from the war. Moving through her day to day life—existing more than living, she has few expectations for her new assignment: translator for American movie star Marilyn Monroe who is visiting Korea on a four-day USO tour.

As Alice escorts Marilyn on her tour, she can't help but compare their two very different lives and as her own painful and troubled past catches up with her, she is forced into a reckoning, no longer able to run from her guilt and trauma.

It's the summer of 2017 and Kathy—who bears a distinct resemblance to punk novelist Kathy Acker—is getting married. Meanwhile, fascism is on the rise, truth is dead, the planet is heating up, and Trump is tweeting the world ever closer to nuclear war. In Crudo, her first work of fiction, Olivia Laing radically rewires the novel with a fierce, compassionate account of learning to love when the end of the world seems in sight.

In 1935, orphaned servant Hirut struggles to adapt to her new household as Ethiopia faces Mussolini's looming invasion. As the battles begin in earnest, Hirut and other women must care for the wounded. But when Emperor Haile Selassie goes into exile and Ethiopia is about to lose hope, Hirut helps to disguise a gentle peasant as the emperor to keep the fight alive. She becomes his guard, inspiring women to join the war against fascism.

In this extraordinary, beautifully told epic, Hirut overcomes rape, violence, and imprisonment, finding the strength to fight for her country's freedom and her own. Maaza Mengiste breathes life into complicated characters on both sides of the battle line, shaping a searing story of ordinary women and the advanced army they courageously opposed. Set against the first real conflict of World War II, The Shadow King is a heartrending, indelible exploration of what it means to be a woman at war.
