They were unlikely friends. She was a young, overweight college professor with a pack-and-a-half-a-day habit and a bad attitude. He was her boss, and an accomplished Ironman triathlete. She was a whiner, he was a hardass. He had his shit together, she most assuredly did not. Amusing and poignant, *Life's Too Short to Go So F*cking Slow* is about running and triathlon, growth and heartbreak, and an epic friendship that went the distance.

Cuz: The Life and Times of Michael A.

Danielle Allen

Liveright Publishing Corporation, a division of W. W. Norton & Company

Hardcover

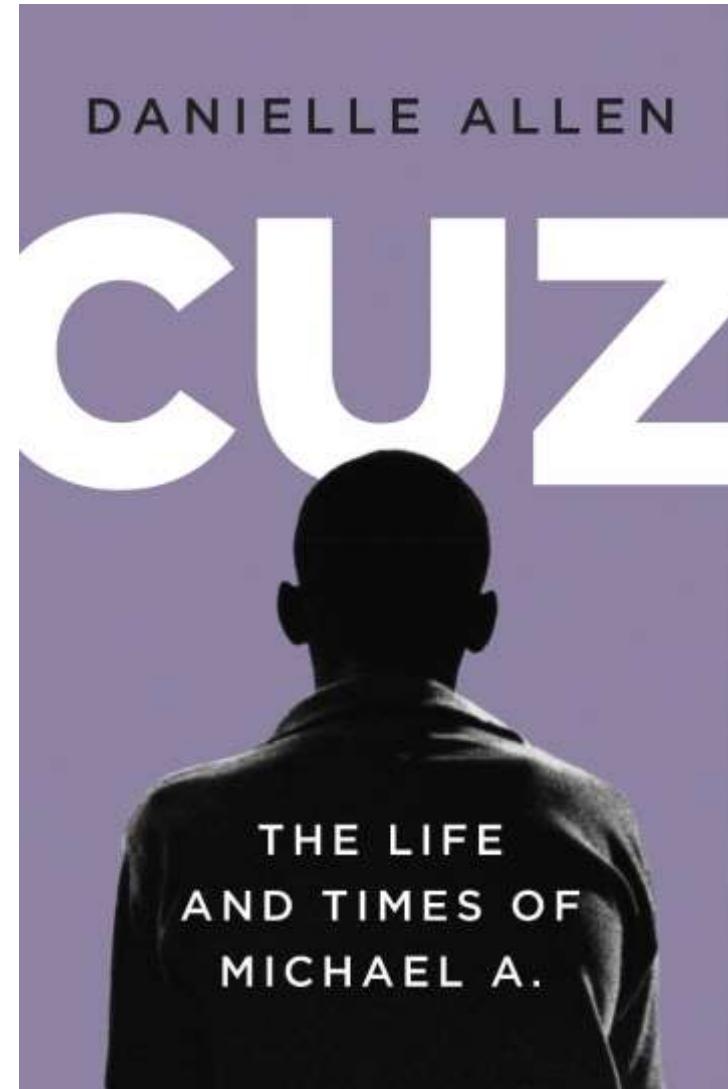

On sale: September 5th

ISBN-13: 9781631493119

$24.95

So tender yet courageous is this fierce family memoir that it makes mass incarceration nothing less than a new American tragedy.

Michael Alexander Allen, baby cousin of an extended family, was first arrested at fifteen for an attempted carjacking. Tried as an adult and sentenced to thirteen years, Michael served eleven. Three years after his release, he was shot and killed. Why? Why did this gifted young man, who dreamed of being a firefighter and a writer, end up dead? Why did he languish in prison? In this Ellisonian story of a young African American man's coming-of-age in late 20th-century America, and of the family who will always love Michael, we learn how we lost a generation.

Black Dahlia, Red Rose: The Crime, Corruption and Cover-Up of America's Greatest Unsolved Murder

Piu Eatwell

Liveright Publishing Corporation, a division of W. W. Norton & Company

Hardcover

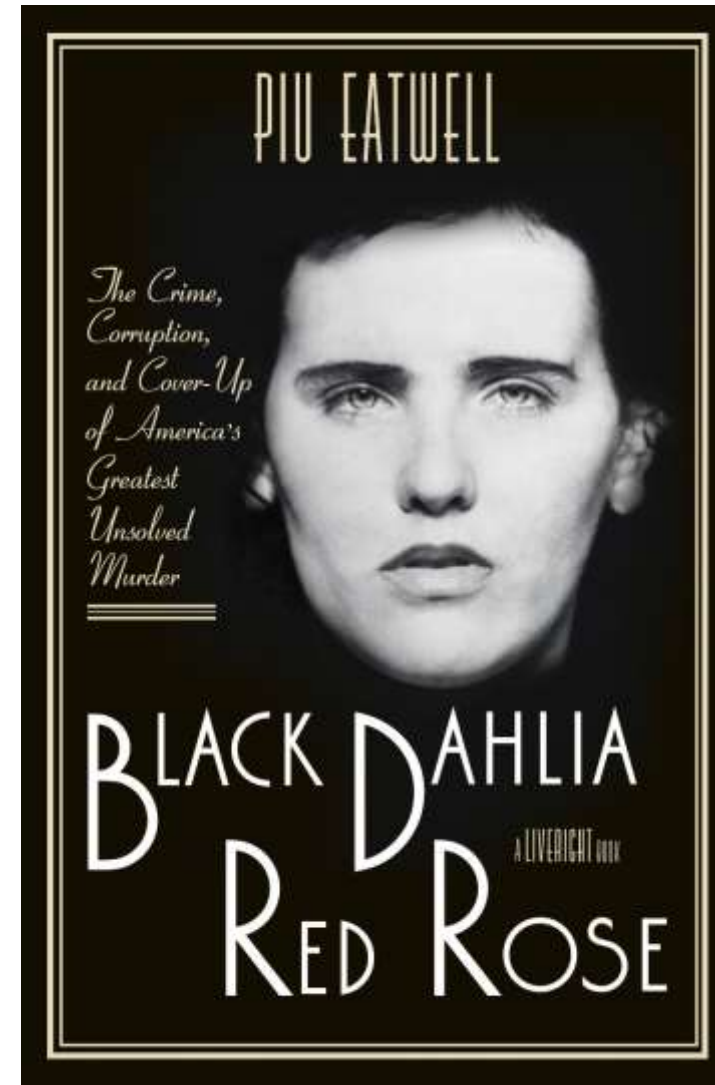

On sale: October 10th

ISBN-13: 9781631492266

$26.95

With startling new evidence, this gripping reexamination of the Black Dahlia murder offers a definitive theory of a quintessential American crime.

The gruesome murder of hopeful starlet Elizabeth Short, in the noir-tinged Los Angeles of 1947, has a permanent place in American lore as one of the most inscrutable of true-crime mysteries. Now, Piu Eatwell --- relentless legal sleuth and atmospheric stylist --- cracks the case after seventy years. In mesmerizing prose, Black Dahlia, Red Rose is a panorama of 1940s Hollywood, a definitive account of one of the biggest unsolved murders of American legal history.

American Fire: Love, Arson, and Life in a Vanishing Land

Monica Hesse

Liveright Publishing Corporation, a division of W. W. Norton & Company

Hardcover

On sale: July 11th

ISBN-13: 9781631490514

$26.95

A breathtaking feat of reportage, American Fire combines procedural with love story, redefining American tragedy for our time.

Shocked by a five-month arson spree that left a rural Virginia county reeling, Washington Post reporter Monica Hesse drove down to the desolate county of Accomack to cover the trial of Charlie Smith, who pled guilty to 67 counts of arson. Over two years of reporting, Hesse uncovered the motives of this troubled addict and his struggling accomplice, girlfriend Tonya Bundick. A mesmerizing and crucial panorama with nationwide implications, American Fire brings to life the Eastern Shore and its inhabitants, battling a punishing economy and increasingly terrified by a string of fires they could not explain. The result evokes the soul of rural America --- a land half gutted before the fires even began.
